A Prince is hunting for wild swans. He is about to shoot one when he sees a crown on her head and realises that she is a Princess. They fall in love, but with the coming of the dawn she must return under her spell. This is the Diaghileff version of Act II of the Four Act Ballet composed by Tchaikovsky, first produced in 1877, and revised with new choreography by Petipa and Ivanov in 1894.

JARDIN AUX LILAS

Choreography : ANTONY TUDOR

Decor : HUGH STEVENSON

Music : CHAUSSON

Solo Violinist : HAROLD FAIRHURST

Caroline, the Bride-to-be ... MARGARET HILL
 Her Lover ... DAVID PALTENGHI
 The Man she must marry ... HARRY CORDWELL
 The Woman in his past ... ANNETTE CHAPPELL
 Guests : MARJORIE FIELD, BARBARA GRIMES, EILEEN WARD, DAVID
 HUNT, DAVID ELLIS

At a party in the moonlit garden, Caroline, who is betrothed against her will to a man she does not love, tries to bid farewell to her lover, but is repeatedly interrupted by the assembled guests. This Ballet has emotional intensity beneath the simple story of frustration and parting.

BAR AUX FOLIES BERGERE

Choreography : NINETTE DE VALOIS

Music : CHABRIER

Decor : WILLIAM CHAPPELL (after MANET)

The Barmaid ... BARBARA GRIMES
 Valentin, the Waiter ... WALTER GORE
 La Goulue, the Star of the Can-Can ... PAULA HINTON
 The Can-Can Dancers ... MARGARET HILL, ANNETTE CHAPPELL,
 MARJORIE FIELD, EILEEN WARD
 Old Man ... DAVID ELLIS
 The Drunks ... CECIL BATES, DAVID HUNT
 The Charwoman ... JEAN LANCEMAN

"Bar Aux Folies Bergere" is inspired by Manet's famous painting, and opens with a reproduction of it. The placid barmaid is in love with the waiter, who, unfortunately, succumbs to the charms of the much more knowing leader of the Can-Can. The broken-hearted barmaid returns behind the bar, where she resumes her placid pose of the opening.
